Volume 18 | Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, Saturday, February 7, 1953 | Number 16

Choir Ready For 2-Week Eastern Trip

Friday, Feb. 13 at 4 p.m. is scheduled as departure time for the annual tour of the Wartburg a capella choir directed by Dr. Edwin Lunecke.

Traveling in seven states, the choir will tour as far east as Buffalo, more, Md., and will cover 3,700 miles on the 17-day jaunt. The choir will return to campus March 1 and will present its home concert in the Waverly gymnasium at 8 the following evening, Monday, March 2.

Choir Will Visit D. C.

Points of interest on the tour include a tour of Washington, D. C., with visits to Mount Vernon and Arlington cemetery and possible attendance at a session of congress. Other history sights to be visited are Fort Ridgely in Baltimore; Independence Hall, Christ church and the Betsy Ross house in Philadelphia, and the battlefield at Gettysburg.

Joan Haven, soubrette; Betty von Fischer, soprano, and Alice Sexter, tenor, are featured soloists with the 36-voice group.

Quartet To Perform

Soloists of the girl's quartet—Betty Baker, Kathy Mueller, Mavis Johnson and Gordie Krause—will participate in church services in Washington and Baltimore. The quartet will replace mid-week Lenten services in Trapper, Iowa, and Red Mound, Ind.

'What Is Your God?' Theme For Week

Virginia Wishek In Senior Recital Mon.

Virginia Wishek, voice student of C. Robert Larson, will present a senior recital in the Little Theater Monday evening at 8, accompanied at the piano by Myra Shrader. She is a sophomore.

Wishek

Virginia is a music major working for the degree in voice and will complete work on her bachelor of music education degree this spring. During her stay at Wartburg she has been active in Wartburg choir, Castle Singers and MAC when she took participation in dramatics.

"Ruecklied Morire" by Mozart, "Verda followed by Handel's "What Though I Trace Each Herb and Flower," will open the program. Schubert's "Forelle und Orgone" Wolfs "Verschwiegene Liebe" and "Storchbotschaft" and Hindemith's "Heure Exquise will complete the first group of selection.

Following intermission Miss Wishek will sing "The Song that Flits on Robin's Eyes" by Copeland and Griffes' "By a Lonely Forest Pathway." Concluding the program will be Quilter's "Go Lovely Rose" and "The Spirit Flower" by Campbell-Tipton.

Drive To Start Thursday For Billboards

How well Wartburg college will be publicized to visitors entering Waverly is up to organizations for the response given student body posters during the past week.

Starting Thursday students will be contacted for contributions that will be used to erect billboards advertising the college at the four entrances to the city.

Student Senate at the beginning of the year favored one project instead of many. The total cost of the post this one can be made a combined effort, Senate President Robert Hauser, project chairman.

Solicitors appointed by Nereen Hansen are as follows:

Wartburg Hall, Marilyn Vogel; Ann Bond, Mary Ellrich and Irene Bast; Cotts and Ketta Bonnes, Virginia Wishek, Annette Delores Hove; Grossmann Hall, Penny Shell, Jean Ann Hoth; Hess Sowers; North Hall, Walter Ihle and Bernard Kienke, Harold Schimenberg; Trexler camp, David Peterson, Ron Hansen, Steve Bruedl; off-campus residences, Bee Ann Hoth, Priscilla Mueller, Yvonne Nelson, Bonnie Gehlsen, Mary Jane Miller, Marilyn Mary Schaefer, Robert Mueller, Judy Beckman, Don Johnson, Stan Becker and Floyd Kitterling.

Music Dept. Reveals Change In Courses

Approval for new curricula in Wartburg's music department by the National Association of Schools of Music was announced this week by Dr. Edwin Lunecke, department head.

The change will be a realignment of courses already offered for the bachelor of science education degree. Renamed the bachelor of music education degree, voice, so organ, it will demand the additional hours of class instruction to fulfill requirements.

The bachelor of music degree course will not include education classes but those contained in the B.S.E. curriculum, there will be a two-fold course of study.

The course is designed mainly for those who wish to engage in the profession of other than public school teaching—preparing the students for private teaching, graduate study and positions as church organists," stated Dr. Lunecke.

Dr. George Forell

"What Is Your God?" Is Theme of Series

"What Is Your God?" is the theme of the series of talks to be presented by Dr. George Forell during Spiritual Emphasis week here, Feb. 10-12. Dr. Forell is professor of philosophy at Gustavus Adolphus college, St. Peter, Minn.

Inaugurated the series Tuesday morning at 10 a.m. convocation, Dr. Forell will speak on "What Is Your God—In History?" Wednesday's convo topic will be "—In Your Family?" and "—In Your Job?" will be discussed Thursday morning.

Evening chapel topics will be "—In the World Struggle?" on Tuesday and "—In Your Character" on Wednesday. Chapel services are scheduled for 8:55-9:15 p.m.

"This is Our God—The Real Presence" will be the topic of a final address at the Holy Communion services at the Trinity church, Thursday at 8 p.m. Faculty members of Wartburg will assist at the services, according to Ray Martin, Wartburger in Greek and Spiritual Emphasis week chairman.

Students May Discuss

Students also have opportunities for discussion Tuesday evening, the group will meet at Wartburg hall lounge for an informal session immediately after chapel and, on Wednesday evening, the discussion group will be held in Grossmann hall lounge.

According to the Gustavus Adolphus news bureau, Dr. Forell has a wide range of experience. He has published numerous articles and is co-author of "Christian Faith and Modern Philosophy," he has been a news writer, radio broadcaster, lecturer, and has served as an instructor in the United National Institute of the Polish Journalists foundation.

Forell Author Of Societies

He is a member of the American Philosophical society, the Royal Institute of Philosophy, the American Society of Church History and the American Society for Reformation Research.

Dr. Forell will be in the chapel at 8:55 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday for personal interviews.

"I hope all students will feel free to make full use of the opportunity to talk with Dr. Forell privately and to participate in the group discussions," stated Martin.

Stumme To Speak

The Rev. Lawrence A. Stumme, superintendent of Lutheran homes, Princeton, will speak in the 8th "Serving People in the Spirit of Christ" at the Wartburg Vespers to borrow at 1:30 p.m. in the Little Theater.

Players Provide Enjoyable 'Ten Nights' In 1890 Style

By Hank Dirks

Reeking with splendor and a Reeder will hold court and retreat with "Old Grandma" runs, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," presented by Little Theater audiences two nights of performance, tonight and next Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Enjoying themselves from the first curtain to the last, everyone appeared under the spell of real acting and the quivering voices of the Wartburg Players.

With effective settings, accented 1890 makeup and evidence of good direction, the cast seemed at ease and smiling appearances were soon established. The onlookers, however, were not aware of the genuine ability of the actors, except in the way the players during relaxed

Tell 'Em About It!

Have you ever wondered where the money behind each issue of your paper comes from? You probably know that each student kicks in $3 a year through his activity ticket, and that outside subscribers pay the same. But that's not all of it.

The TRUMPET's yearly budget approaches $4,000, and subscriptions don't raise nearly all of it. Nor does the paper receive help from the college in the way of subsidy, as some people apparently believe.

This publication, like all newspapers ever published, depends to a large degree on its best friend—the advertiser. These friends, for the most part, are the merchants of Waverly. They supply nearly $1,000 a year so that you may have a weekly paper. By itself that sum may not seem staggering, but add to it the thousands these businessmen annually pay to support the Fortress, Castle Tales, athletic programs, long-distance KWAR broadcasts, scholarship and numerous special appeals.

Advertising is a curious game. Whether robbed as radio commercials or splashed across double-page spreads in Life, ads save us money—big chunks of it. Yes, we pay again in the end. But in the meantime we have the advantage of services which otherwise we couldn't swing on our own, as individuals.

But in spite of these obvious benefits, ads are often unpopular. Students every year complain about the amount of space devoted to ads in the TRUMPET, apparently unaware that precisely that amount of space, 40 per cent in a advertising copy, while this paper averages less than 30.

Good business demands that every investment produce tangible returns, and advertising is no exception. If merchants don't see their outlays coming back as profits, they usually quit advertising.

No one will say students don't patronize our advertisers. But advertising is a subtle thing, and its returns are hard to measure. Because of this, we're asking students to mention, when patronizing a Waverly merchant, that he/she/it had an ad in the TRUMPET and would like to see what he has to offer.

Doing this will make the job of Neal Winkler, advertising manager, and his staff—Al Bergner, Carol Bode, Ruth Ann and Millard Wallen—a great deal easier. And more than that, it will show Waverly businessmen that their advertising does pay, especially when it appears in the TRUMPET.

EVERYBODY'S getting into the act. First students oppose dating; then papers on the evils of smoking; and now Wartburg Players' timespeare production.

IT MUST BE true that reputation is the soul of drowning. At least, after sunstroke, horse, schmoo and Iron Wartburg Lies, Ed Bleiler's public address announcer has begun to pronounce "Adds" correctly.

ONCE AGAIN we enter the season of love, with all its broken romances. Mark these words—there'll be some changes made!

IF EVERY business had a salesman like Rodney Blaske, their problems would be few with red ink. Promoting Castle Tales sales at the Brotherhood Institute Tuesday, the salespeople Blaske gave away over a thousand cigars to religious treats as extra bonuses with every sale.

MEMBERS OF Philosophy 302 learned recently that one of the best ways of getting rid of excess salt is to eat a lot of soda—wet and dry. Someone with a dry soul is goodhearted and uprighteous, while the wet soul is evil and he is one given to sensual pleasures. Maybe we should install Fawcett tires in the social room to serve as ventilators for the smokers.

ARTIST SERIES tickets were rarer than good tunes in the Der Fledermaus. Thursday, Ken Yeter found that he and his date were among the lucky few to get a spare for the Heifetz concert.

WELL, the semi-finished effort is by, we can always get a bamboo pole and fish it further.

One Sleepless Knight

By Sid Curtis

The time has come! Two long have we lived under a set of vague, unwritten laws here at Wartburg. How many times have we said, "I broken those laws without even being aware of them!" How many times have we said that? This great social injustice must be corrected. The unwritten laws will be writ!

* * *

Be It Writ: On the campus of the aforementioned college which shall hereinafter be called and fully appollated Wartburg, it, and for any reason, any Freshman, hereinafter called the freshman, or freshmen, shall of his or anyone else's will accost any member of the opposite sex, or other person, by any function of this school, or any other institution, club, gang or tribe, said party of the second part shall belong exclusively to said party of the first part and shall not have any dates with any sort, as enumerated above, with any party of third, fourth or fifth parts, which parties shall refer to other males also interested in said party of the second part.

* * *

Consider the implications of this law! It has always been enforced to a certain degree by the will of the students on campus, but now at last it has been set down clearly and concisely. No longer can Mark Wallmann be troubled by women, at last John Kelley will have a girl of his own and some of the poor men are now trying to change impressions and use their money for more practical things, like _____.

* * *

Law Two Is Brevity. Also Writ: If anyone, hereinafter called the third of the first part, shall at any time borrow any of said goods such as a cigarette, coke, coffee, book, paper, pencil, or of any service, such as a ride, and should forget to pay a fair or reasonable price between the aforementioned goods or service from some acquaintance whom he has had the pleasure of meeting, and in the event that he shall die of the first permanent disappearance, he shall, he should really be called the unfortunate one, and he shall be given all the party hook by the old society of the Wartburg Lie Detector Society, either in money, symptom or woes to barter, for such a debt, and the party of the first part shall not have to pay any other alternative.

* * *

At long last my editors can more completely breathe freely. But, alas, everyone else will be forced to go bankrupt. Oh, well, they have a happy ending after all. Let's see, the Lie Detector Society will have to do all right. But with all this borrowing, the money on campus will probably be tied up for years. It probably will be used to buy Grossmann hall mattresses will have to take out Federal Deposit Insurance.

* * *

One other little matter deserves a few lines. In most schools the outstanding leaders and workers are mentioned more times in the school paper than anyone else. But not at good old Wartburg! Here its mostly-mentioned persons are bums and characters. Hence, this one bit law is writted!

* * *

No person shall be mentioned in the duly abhistened paper of the aforementioned Wartburg college, which shall be called the TRUMPET hereinafter, for any reason, any time, including the person named above, shall be a thoroughly disreputable person or party of the part as aforementioned above, and whereas, whether, whereon, etc.

* * *

You intelligent people would be insulted if I were to try to explain such a field, clearly worded law as stated above, so I'll now take my hahandkerchief leave. ____ Sid, Amicus Curtis

Senate Slants

A committee consisting of Mrs. Carl Elliott, Mrs. Ralph Kolb, Mueller, freshman, Gerald Ristau, junior, and the student body president, submitted a proposed student health plan to the group for discussion. The plan will be drawn up in final form and submitted to the student body for approval after all other channels have passed on it.

Vice- president Bud Buehlers presented information on a trip with National Student association's regional meeting this coming summer. The information will be relayed to students through class presidents or through personal contact with Buehlers.

Other business included special items concerning the proposed prayer room in the basement of the public display-of-affection-by-couples situation. Reports from committees on the student body project and furthering the student government office were heard.

Voice Of The Campus

Dear Editor:

The following resolution was adopted Thursday by students in history 332; this letter is sent to express the feeling of these students on action to be taken concerning a case which is now pending before the vegan's court. It is requested to be considered by Student Senate and put to a vote of the student body for positive action as a standing duty.

"It is the God-given right and duty of every student to protect his fellow students, professors, and staff members from all unsafe conditions, from pipers thereto, etc., are administered fairly and approved with equal rights and privileges for all.

Cagers Entertain BV Tonight

By Ted Heinecken

With only the faintest hope remaining for Wartburg to retain its conference trophy, the Axmen will entertain revived Buena Vista tonight at 8 in the Knights gym. Tuesday Wartburg will make the trek to Dubuque to challenge loop-leading Loras.

Buena Vista, on the second lap of a two-day eastern swing, met Loras Tuesday last night at Dubuque. The Duhawk Beavers owned a 2-3 league mark, 4-12 overall. They trumped Westmar at Storm Lake Monday, 85-56, and upset Luther, 69-57, right after Christmas, while losing to Loras twice and Luther in the other north division battles.

Lacking height but strong on aggressiveness, the Storm Lakers got off to a dismayed start this season but surprised followers of the Iowa conference by their rough treatment of Westmar.

Kenneth Jacobs Star

Center Don Kamprath, an all-conference cager last season, who dumped in 33 points in one game this season, and forward Martin Johnson led the Beaver point attack. Kamprath is the only veteran holdover from last year's second-place squad.

Buena Vista won the lone team to tip the Knights in conference play last year, although both Luther and Loras have defeated the trick already this season on the Knights' home floor. Loras, with the top spot, must be considered the team to beat of the IIAC contests, while Luther is the only team to stop Wartburg on Upper Iowa to upset Knights.

Knights Double Figures

With four more games scheduled on the Knights' home floor, the Knights will be out to avenge this evening's defeat and to improve their best defenses in the state—just 67.7 points a game.

Loras, which has won three more games than Wartburg in conference play, will try to keep a clean slate when the Knights entertained Axmen Tuesday. Headed by sharpshooting Jim Secord in north division scoring and guard Jim Bob Kinsella, the Duhawks have shown an insatiable ability to come from behind and take over in the final minutes of play.

Conference Standings
North Division

	W	L	O.A.	Dk.
Loras	5	2	76.9	65.1
WARTBURG	3	2	71.6	62.6
Buena Vista	2	3	65.6	67.8
Luther	3	4	65.6	63.0
Westmar	2	4	63.3	70.7
Upper Iowa	0	6	57.0	75.7

Coffee-Cup Quarterback

By Bob Snyder

Now that the basketball team has spared us the strain of rooting them to victory or defeating them, it's time to considering the task of finishing next best. This hinges on two things—first, Loras must finish first, and second, Wartburg (not somebody else) must finish second.

But there's still the NAIA tournament at Kansas City. Loras is not a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics and therefore can't participate in the play-off to pick a contestant from the conference. The Duhawks of Iowa, Wartburg would have a leg up in district tourney for the honor of representing Iowa at the national elimination tourney in Kansas City.

If the Knights are effective in thwarting other contenders for the second place spot they will be in position beyond reach. More will probably meet such teams as ISTC, Grinnell and Central, all outfits which the Knights whipped in the pre-season tilts.

Possibly Cornell, our first-round opponent last year, may again represent the Midwest conference. Cornell received a bye last year and took second place behind Carleton. Olmsted and his buddies won't have it so easy in the tournament. Even Western may not represent the southern division of the conference, but the rare there is much higher than the last of the loop.

It is apparent that the Axmen would face teams they have defeated before. Only difference, they have a good chance of going to Kansas City. The Orange and Black boosters could therefore save face—if they still can't.

Cage fans in this area stay open to treated to the fine basketball skill displayed by teams in last year's tournament if the Knights are effective. According to Coach Al Bundgaard, a member of the selection committee, "The play-off site would probably be either our gym or TCU."

The fact that capacity crowds last year in the Knight gymnasium paid admission for the tournament and the winner's trip to KC for the first time in the history of the school makes Wartburg a likely spot for another tourney next year. (That is, if the basketball team takes second place in the north half.)

Notre Dame fans informs me that the streetcar picture inserted in this space last week was there so readers would know who I am. My picture was omitted because I was engrossed in the picture, would have continued anyone who knows me only on a one-eye. At any rate, the picture will appear no more. Bomhoff Picked As Top Athlete Of Jan. For Consistent Play

By Ev Rinnuth

Barry Bomhoff, junior pre-theology from Rockford, Ill., was named by the WW club this week as Athlete-of-the-Month for January.

Bomhoff

He was chosen for consistent performance a n d outstanding play in the cage contest.

Having played basketball since coming to Wartburg, Barry has been a consistent performer in the Knights' lineup. He also has received honorable mention in basketball circles. Last year the Rockford lad received second honorable mention.

Consistent Performer

Consistent is the word to describe Bomhoff's play. He has consistent ball when called upon, as evidenced by his fourth-quarter surge against USD Tuesday night.

He's having a season that many players would envy. Out of 169 attempts, he's tossed in 65 field goals for a .384 percentage. In the charity line he holds a .627 percentage after sinking 42 foul tries for the season.

Barry Has 11 In January

In conference ball Barry ranks second on the loop with 97 points for total points. He has recorded 26 tallies in two games for an average of 13.2. During January he potted 11 in nine contests for an average of 12.7 per game.

Barry's roommate, Al Dietzel, gave this explanation for Bomhoff's exceptional play: "Barry hasn't got a woman on campus, so he doesn't have to worry about the female element. He just concentrates on his ball game."

Maple Crew Slams Upper Iowa, 81-57, After Frustrating 75-69 Loss At Luther

By Jim Seeter

Wartburg's hotshooting cagers [illegible] a tilt in both competition [illegible] this past week-end, trouncing the Upper Iowa Peacocks, 81-57, Saturday night on the latter's home court. Saturday's contest was preceded by a 75-69 loss to Luther on Friday night in the Knights' gymnasium.

The split gave the basketeers a 12-league record and a 3-2 conference mark. Tough competition, facing an automatic on high-flying Luther.

Knights Spring In Loop

Upper Iowa kept its winless loop record intact as Adix and Cory pump bossed 31 points to the Peacocks' 57. The Knights showed the form expected of defending champions with the exception of an occasional cold quarter. Sporting a 39-per-cent mark, Wartburg established a meager four baskets in 10 attempts for a frigid 38 per-cent during period three.

Barry Bomhoff, junior, led the Knights from their lethargy, cannon-shooting enough points to keep the fourth period and the Axmen [illegible] from falling after a scoreless 50 per cent fourth quarter. Bill Ruhl led the scoring for the Knights and bossed by Barry Bomhoff's 16 and Ken Schaefer's 14.

Overlooked Fundamentals

Overlooked fundamentals offering Wartburg cage fans a big headache in the Luther tilt. The Knights were rating for their shooting ragged in addition to play—and clicked with the ball, forgetting minor things like rebounding and defensive play.

Norse shooting eyes produced a 47-per-cent mark on 31 field goals and giving Luther guards out the Wartburg defense fits shreds.

Don Johnson, 130-lb. Knight fusiler, nears pin over Luther's Gary Iast Saturday night at Decorah, as referee Fred Stoker prepares to slap the mat. Wartburg tied the Norse, 14-all.

By Fred Gennerman

Holding a dual meet record of 2-1-1, Knight limb-twisters, seeking their third win of the season, travel to Rock Island, Ill., today to meet a mediocre Augustana mat team at 2 p.m.

Last Saturday night the Axmen drew even with Luther, 14-14, at Decorah, after whipping them earlier in the week to the tune of 19-6 in the Knights gymnasium.

Johnson, Grenfell Solid

Starting out in a furious fashion, the Decorah match was tied 5-5 after Don Johnson, 130, pinned Luther's Berg with 33 seconds to go. Johnson's pin climaxed a nine-second fall. Grenfell, 137-pound Knight grappler, also fired in the first loss in dual competition.

Luther grapplers took the next two matches, decisioning Roth, 145-pounder, and pinning Roy Bierbaum in the latter bout.

Middendorf Wins Again

Bob Dirks and Arnie Brandt knotted the score once more at 11-11 when they decisioned their matchmates 4-0 and 4-3. Dirks worked in the 157-lb. column, while Brandt tied up the 167-lb. class.

Ben Weidler, 177, finally put the Orange and Black ahead when he gained a 3-2 decision over Luther's Hanson on riding time, but our weighed Ray Bandanel took 1-0 in the heavyweight class to equalize the final count.

APG Holds Clinic For Prep Writers, Accepts 3 Pledges

With over 30 high school students and advisors attending, the campus chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma, national journalism fraternity, held its annual journalism clinic here Tuesday as the opening activity of the week. Last Sunday APG pledged three new members at the home of Miss Margaret Wolff, chapter advisor.

Tuesday's program for students from the nearby high schools was conducted by Bob Mathias, Kay Kamen, and Jim Hoffman, with a welcome address by Norman Hagman, college vice-president and publications committee chairman.

Editors of the three campus publications, Trumpeter, Kodak and Cattle Tales, gave short talks on their work. Bob Mathias, after which a panel discussion, moderated by Miss Wolff, was held to answer questions of the visitors.

The day's program was shown through the Kodak publishing company and Wartburg Press and pendent-Democrat buildings, after which some of the fundamental processes of editing were exhibited by THUNDER and Fortress editors. Supper in the cafeteria and the Upper Iowa-Wartburg basketball game concluded the clinic program.

New pledges to Alpha Phi, who were initiated formally at Sunday's meeting are Jim Geske, Leroy Gerdes, and Jim Johnson. Fred Gongenheim, alpha phi gamma national editor will take place March 15.

Engelbrecht To Meeting

Herb Engelbrecht, assistant to the president, attended a meeting of the National Lutheran Council this week in Atlantic City, N.J. Elected by the American Lutheran church at its convention last fall, Engelbrecht is one of four representatives of the ALC in this national group.

EXPOSED TO MACHINE AGE—

Grossmannites Live Chaotic Existence

By Fred Gunnerson

The peaceful slumber of first-floor Grossmann suites comes to an abrupt halt with a pleading bellow:

"Got change for a buck? I need four quarters! Laundry Limp" ran out of silver—my shoes are in the middle of a rinse. Anybody got a quarter?"

Cause of this typical Saturday commotion is the new self-service laundry, installed recently in Grossmann's basement. The laundromat, consisting of a Maytag automatic washer and a Bendix dryer, has been installed by a local hardware store on a trial basis.

If the venture proves profitable, the equipment, valued at $900, will be purchased by the owners.

At present, the laundry is controlled by time clocks which have an avid appetite for shiny silver quarters. You can have either 40 minutes of washing or 30 minutes of drying for two bits, a situation which teaches you the value of a minute the hard way—through the pocketbook.

Soap is important in this complex operation. Take, for instance, the case of Ted Dockter and Del Hutton, the first brave souls to try the new attraction. They used only press-exciting cleaning agent instead of the regular "avoid clothes-wrinkle bands" variety.

Dockter snapped a "clean-ed" soggy T-shirt at Hutton when Del had his back turned.

Hutton's cry of terror filled the basement. "I've been shot with rocksalt! Get me to a hospital before I bleed to death!"

He was finally convinced that he'd live, and all was comparatively quiet till Harley Schmidt, storm cement president, knocked a box of detergent clothes into a dark, dusty corner while trying to find a sacrificial spot to tack up a time sheet.

Dockter picked up his shirts and moaned, "I'm out of soap. I have to iron them dirty."

He's not the only cramp in the dorm who can boast white shirts with a touch of chocolate rocky road frosted in.

Then there's the problem of hot water. As one Grossmannite remarked, "It was hard enough getting a hot Saturday night shower before, but now we have to get up at 4 a.m. to get hot water for just a shave."

The first day of trial was a chaotic one. Everything worked by itself, but if washer, drier and iron were all plugged in at once, it'd sweat a fuse. Ted Agerty, temporary fuse replacer, claims a new record—he put in three new fuses in two hours.

Here's a brief run-down of the rigors of automatic washing, Grossmann style:

Rough clothes, sports shirts, rewright clothes, and pastel colored clothes in warmer, add soap, insert quarters, read directions, insert quarter, take out clothes, put clothes in, insert quarter, wait 60 minutes, hang up undried clothes in room, replace fuse, knock dents in clothes on floor, insert anyway (out of quarters), take clothes to room, sock in (finally, you're tired).

Varied Recital Set For Sunday At 4

Students of Robert Larson, voice; Miss Ruth Brunner, piano, and Ernest Harris, instrumental, will appear in a miscellaneous recital Sunday afternoon at 4 in the Little Theatre.

Instrumentalists who will perform are Eldora Rebsdorf, pianist; Rebsdorf, and Bo Eastvold, pianist; clarinetist. Piano students participating are Miss Jensen, accompanist; Mildred Schultz, sophomore, and Ruth Ann Jensen, freshman.

Voice students on the program include Jim Reiter, senior; Derald Rice and Joan Hoven, juniors, Norman Hagman and Mavis Johnson, sophomores.

Wolff's Poem Accepted

"My Rose," a poem by Miss Margaret Wolff of the Wartburg English department, has been accepted for publication in the National Anthology of Teachers Poetry, by 1,000 high school and college teachers and librarians. Miss Wolff's poem was chosen this week from the board of publication of the forthcoming volume.

Gym Open Sundays

The Knights gymnasium is now open to students Sunday afternoons from 1:30-4:30 for recreational purposes. According to the student activities committee, which handled arrangements, facilities for volleyball, pingpong, trampolining and other forms of sport are available.
